must have influence upon the pending election at Leith. Continuing, Lord Randolph asserted that Lord Rosebery had evaded the rule which precludes peers from inter-fering in the election of members of the house of commons. Sir William Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer and liberal leader in the house of commons, said that as Lord Randoph had not proposed that Lord Rosebery should be called to the bar of the house he mann, who is well known to the police as a night prowler, recently rented a small room in one of the Grafton street houses. On Thursday night last she, in company with an elderly man, was seen to enter the room. Subsequently, loud quarreling was heard by other tenants in the house, but as wordy wars were of frequent occurrence, no attention was paid to this disturbance. Blood stains in the sink aroused a neighbor's sustains. picions. The Hermann woman moved, but the police were notified. Her room was searched, and in a trunk was found the battered corpse of the missing man.
